

Survey Recruitment

Data was collected on behalf of our study team by Ipsos, an international market research company. Participants are recruited by Ipsos from a variety of sources to create panels that are representative of the population in which they are recruited. Ipsos primarily recruits through social networks, allowing them to target hard to recruit populations, and includes providing participant-relevant incentives for completing surveys. Other methods for recruitment include email lists, banners, website and text ads, co-registration, and search engine marketing. When necessary, they also partner with thoroughly vetted third party recruiters. Ipsos limits the number of surveys each participant is able to complete in a given time period and uses algorithms to detect fraud and remove users from the survey in real-time. For this survey, Ipsos recruited adults (ages 18 years and older) in census representative age bands. We compare our participants to census figures by age, gender, and household size
